

General Harbord Has Had Colorful Career In Service Of Army

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 3 (AP).—Flying New York's airplanes in quest of the Republican nomination for governor, F. Truett Davison, assistant secretary of war in charge of aeronautics, hopes to match the feat of his close friend and college chum, David S. Ingalls, Republican gubernatorial candidate in Ohio.

Major General James G. Harbord, former chief of staff of the A. E. F., who will come here Wednesday night to present medals of military merit to the United States government, has a colorful record as a member of the army. He entered the United States regular army as an enlisted man and through his great ability worked his way up to his present heights.

Back in 1895 in Alabama, when a man of 32 and a first lieutenant in the regular army, he joined the Tenth Colored Cavalry as a quartermaster. During this time the transfer of regimental property was taking place and General John J. Pershing, who was a captain then, shared the same tent with Harbord. At the time they were present with a perplexing and important problem concerning the transfer of some valuable government property and so cleverly did Lieutenant Harbord handle the problem that he impressed Captain Pershing to such an extent that he never forgot Harbord.

Then in 1906 these two men came in contact again. They were crossing the Pacific on an army transport, but here the scene had changed considerably. Captain Pershing was now a brigadier general and Lieutenant Harbord, a captain, but the difference in rank between a captain and lieutenant is very small in comparison to the gap between captain and brigadier general. So the two men were nothing more than military acquaintances.

The years slipped by quickly until 1917 when Captain Harbord had reached the ranks of a major and was studying in the Army War College in Washington, D. C., at which time he came in contact with General Pershing again. The World War was then just a month old and General Pershing was Commander-in-Chief of the American forces in France. Pershing at the time was preparing to go to France and wanted Major Harbord to accompany him as chief of his staff.

This was the highest command that could be placed on Major Harbord without being made commander-in-chief. He was next to General Pershing and the second most important man in the greatest army ever to fight under the American flag. Major Harbord was Chief of Staff of the A. E. F.

General Harbord won the position of major back in 1898 when he handled that problem so brilliantly while in the company of the then Captain Pershing. The Commander-in-Chief had hundreds of friends, high ranking officers and able men, but he realized the unusual ability of that Lieutenant Harbord of years back. Pershing knew he picked a man who could do that job and how he did it is now a proud bright page in the history of the American army.

This great man, destined to be a leader of America in its greatest world conflict, was born in March, 1864. His family moved several times to different cities in the middle-west before coming to Manhattan, where James and his two sisters went to school.

He graduated from the Kansas State Agricultural College in 1886. He was Senior Captain of the Cadet Corps, the ranking officer and in his mind was set for West Point. In the competitive examination for the Point, with 26 candidates, he officially tied for first place, but the father of the other boy was a State Senator and a politician and the old trooper's son, without political backing, was denied. He attempted it again the second year but there was no vacancy.

However, he was bent on a military career and during the year as instructor at the College of Agriculture, he planned how he could win a lieutenant in the regular army. In January, 1889, he enlisted in the Fourth Infantry and was sent to Fort Spokane, Washington Territory. Two years and two weeks after he enlisted, he was recommended by his colonel for a commission, and standing first in the examination he was commissioned a second lieutenant, and assigned to the Fifth Cavalry.

He remained a second lieutenant for seven years and during the Spanish American War was asked by Colonel Torrey to be made Major of Volunteers of the Second Volunteer Cavalry, of the Northwestern cavalry, but the troop never reached Cuba. However, at the conclusion of the war he was commissioned first lieutenant.

He then went to the Philippines and there was made a captain. Later he was appointed one of the five Assistant Chiefs of the Philippine Constabulary with the rank and pay of a Colonel. For eleven years he stayed on there, the last year as Acting Chief. That promotion brought him on to the ranks of major with a general's reputation. He left the islands in 1914 and returned to San Francisco. At the San Francisco Fair in 1915 ex-President Roosevelt, who never saw Harbord before, offered him a brigadier generalship in his "paper division" which even then was dreaming of forming and leading in France.

He acted as Pershing's right hand man for over a year after the war broke out. In May, 1915, on his own plea, he was assigned to fight troops and was given the gallant Marine Brigade of the Second Division. For 45 days and 48 nights, he commanded these untried troops on the

Davison To Make Flying Campaign

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 3 (AP).—Flying New York's airplanes in quest of the Republican nomination for governor, F. Truett Davison, assistant secretary of war in charge of aeronautics, hopes to match the feat of his close friend and college chum, David S. Ingalls, Republican gubernatorial candidate in Ohio.

Ingalls, who attended Yale with Davison, went to Washington as assistant secretary of the Navy for aviation while Davison was holding his aviation post in the war department. He campaigned by air and won the nomination for governor of his state. Davison is depending upon "friendly visits" with Republican leaders to impress upon them his availability and desire to head the state ticket. He says he has asked no leader to support him, and he has announced he will support anyone finally chosen.

Accompanied by his wife, the 36-year old veteran of many long flights already has covered hundreds of miles during his campaign and talked with a score of party heads. Yesterday he was the guest of Congressman Herbrand H. Snell at Potsdam.

The assistant secretary has been at home in the air since 1913, when he persuaded his father, the late Henry P. Davison, senior partner in J. P. Morgan and Company, to allow him to use the Davison estate near Glen Cove, L. I., as the base for a Yale volunteer aviation unit. He had been impressed by the Lafayette Escadrille while driving an ambulance in France after his freshman year at college. The Yale volunteer unit later became part of the navy's aerial coast patrol. Davison suffered a broken back in a plane crash in Huntington Harbor, but he recovered and served in the State Assembly before going to Washington.

The flying candidate can find good landing facilities in even the remote corners of New York during his tour. There are 35 airports, as dozen intermediate flying fields and scores of emergency landing places within the state's borders.

National Capital Virtually Abandoned

Washington, Sept. 3 (AP).—This Labor Day week-end finds the capital virtually abandoned by the top ranks of federal officialdom.

President Hoover is at his Rapidan Camp in Virginia for one of his longest rests in recent months. He arrived last night after driving through a heavy rainstorm that served to break the extreme heat wave of the past week.

Here at their desks were only two of the president's cabinet and one of these officers planned to leave. Postmaster General Brown said he would remain but Secretary Doak of the Labor Department will go to Syracuse, N. Y., for a Labor Day speech.

Secretary Wilbur is expected back tomorrow from a western trip and probably will spend the holiday catching up with accumulated correspondence. Vice-President Curtis was visiting his daughter near Providence, R. I.

The thunder storm which made mountain roads dangerously slippery during the president's trip, was a possible forerunner of many like showers over the week-end. Forecasts indicated showers generally today and tomorrow, with Monday's weather still in doubt.

Floods Sweeping Down Rio Grande

Eagle Pass, Tex., Sept. 3 (AP).—The crest of a Rio Grande flood that has done an unestimated amount of property damage but has taken no toll of human life rolled on down stream today with those in its path taking precautions to minimize its damage.

The boundary river between the United States and Mexico, swelled by torrential rains, inundated the business district of Eagle Pass and drove from their homes thousands of residents of Piedras Negras, the Mexican city across the border from here. Twelve persons were missing here but it was believed they merely had been separated from their families.

Farm down the river, about Laredo, Tex., and Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, farmers and ranchmen had driven livestock to high ground and measures were taken to protect irrigation equipment. People living in lowlands along the river left their homes.

The Pecos, Neches, Sabinal, and Devil's rivers also were out of their banks. Considerable damage was reported to railroads and highways. The International Bridge between Del Rio, Tex., and Villa Acuna, Mexico, was damaged.

bloody field of Belleau Woods. Then, as Major-General he was given the whole Second Division and with hardly a day's rest, he led the massive offensive of July 18-19 and 26, when the tide was finally turned and the German offensive checked forever.

Today, at 65 years, General Harbord is a ruddy complexioned, soldierly figure, erect, gallant, tolerant and still doing his job the best way he knows how. It was weren't stupid and cruel, we could wish him another one.

Mayor Walker Could Not Explain; Says Seabury Off to Europe

New York, Sept. 3 (AP).—Three little words—James J. Walker's "I hereby resign"—echoed perplexingly today down the political corridors of New York.

The immediate meaning was obvious enough: Walker was through, for the time being at least, with the mayoral chair. What people were wondering was what effect his resignation might reflect in November.

Uncertainty as to Walker's political intentions continued. Tammany Hall, one of whose favorite sons he has been, remained close-mouthed. Governor Roosevelt, who presided at the hearing on Walker's conduct of the mayor's office, had nothing to say.

Samuel Seabury, direct descendant of the Puritans John and Priscilla Alden, and generalissimo of the investigation which was the basis for the charges involving Walker, is en route to Europe for a rest. Of the principals in the case he alone made an extended statement last night.

He said it was not surprising that Walker resigned because he (Walker) "simply could not explain." He praised Governor Roosevelt's conduct at the hearing.

"Mr. Walker had no defense," Seabury said. "It was conclusively proved that he enriched himself as the result of his mayoralty."

The elimination of Mr. Walker as mayor of this city is a distinct victory for higher standards of public life, and in the elevation of this standard Governor Roosevelt did much to contribute by reason of the manner in which he conducted the hearing.

There still was considerable doubt whether Walker, conceding that he might wish to do so, could run for election in November. Legal experts at the city hall were understood to have agreed that a special election must be held in November to fill the vacancy.

This opinion held that the special election would include the offices of mayor, president of the Board of Aldermen, and alderman from the Ninth district. The aldermanic presidency was made vacant by the elevation of Joseph V. McKee, who held that post to the mayoral chair. The Ninth district aldermanic vacancy has been created by the elevation of Dennis Mahon to McKee's old post.

Reports that Tammany Hall had made a definite commitment to name Walker to run in November for the one year remaining of the term lacked confirmation. John H. McCooey, leader of Brooklyn Democrats, was the only important Democratic leader in New York who made any comment at all, and he said it had not been "fully decided" that Walker would run again.

There was talk, too, of a fusion ticket aimed at the defeat of Walker should he run and the wresting of control of the city government from Tammany Hall.

The former mayor, worn from the strain of the hearing at Albany, remained in seclusion. He has not indicated what action he will take upon the advice of his physician that he take a long rest.

Mayor McKee, having assumed office without flourish and even with expressions of regret that he should become mayor under "these particular circumstances," declared one of his first efforts as mayor would be directed at cutting the budget.

New York city bonds moved up as much as 2½ points on the Stock Exchange yesterday.

FIREMEN LEAVE FAIR TO FIGHT $150,000 BLAZE

Gowanda, N. Y., Sept. 3 (AP).—Hastily summoned from the Hamburg county fair, firemen early today brought under control a fire which swept through the abandoned Gowanda Plow Works and for a time threatened the business section of the town.

The blaze was confined to the plow works and adjacent structures and officials said the loss would approximate $150,000. No effort was made to save the plow works and firemen confined their efforts to extinguishing flames in nearby dwellings and preventing them from spreading into the business section.

The fire broke out while members of the local fire brigade were participating in volunteer firemen's day activities at the Hamburg county fair. They were summoned through a loud speaker system and additional aid was called in from Perryburg and Collins.

The plant, which was closed down two years ago, was filled with valuable machinery and farm equipment. Fire officials were unable to ascertain the cause of the blaze.

YOUNG BOY CUT IN ARM WITH A BUTCHER KNIFE

Edward Sickler, 15, of 31 DeWitt street was removed to the Kingston Hospital in the ambulance Friday afternoon for treatment for a wound in the upper arm. He had been playing with his brother who had a butcher knife, and in some manner Edward was cut with the knife.

Capt. William Sells, Quebec, Sept. 3 (AP).—Captain J. A. Molson, who made the first westward solo flight across the north Atlantic, then abandoned a return flight to England, sailed for home today aboard the liner Empress of Britain.

Roosevelt and Aides Still Silent About Walker Resignation

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 3 (AP).—The official silence which greeted an announcement here of the resignation of Mayor James J. Walker remained unbroken today as Governor Roosevelt departed for Bridgeport, Conn., to make another campaign speech.

Neither the governor nor any spokesman of his has commented on Walker's resignation Thursday, or on his bitter denunciation of Roosevelt's way of conducting the ouster hearing of the New York mayor. Withdrawing from office on the eve of a scheduled resumption of the hearing, Walker accused Roosevelt of bias and unfairness.

Stern-faced, the governor formally thrust the Walker case aside yesterday afternoon. Roosevelt entered the big hearing room, with no audience except a few scattered newspaper writers, tourists and telegraph messenger boys.

The state executive took his familiar place at the big table across which a few days ago he faced Walker and a roomful of spectators. Stenographers took their places.

Into the record the governor read a telegram from the law firm of John J. Curtin and John J. Glynn, the latter a nephew of former Governor Alfred E. Smith. The message advised him that Walker, having resigned, would not appear at the hearing, and that a letter would follow the telegram.

Then Roosevelt made his only public utterance regarding the Walker resignation. He said: "The Honorable James J. Walker has resigned his office as mayor of the city of New York. His action in doing so has terminated the proceedings before me, as governor of this state, and I therefore declare the hearing closed."

Before going to Bridgeport, Mr. Roosevelt's program called for a visit to the state convention of the Democratic Union and the Union of Young Democratic Clubs at Schenectady.

After greeting the convention at 11 a. m., he was to return to Albany for lunch and motor to Bridgeport during the afternoon.

A dinner of Connecticut Democrats in honor of Mr. Roosevelt and Archibald McNeill, the state's national committeeman, is to begin at 6:30 p. m. E. D. T. About 30,000 people are expected to hear the candidate at Pleasant Beach. Among other speakers will be Homer S. Cummings, former Democratic national chairman; Governor Wilbur L. Cross, James A. Farley, the national chairman; and Arthur Mullen of Nebraska, chairman of the board of strategy.

After his Bridgeport speech, Mr. Roosevelt will go to his home at Hyde Park for the week-end. Late Monday he will leave for the state fair at Syracuse, where he will be a visitor Tuesday.

Rogers Wanted On Bad Check Charge

Delaware Avenue Man Arrested on Charge of Public Intoxication Also Wanted for Giving Out Rubber Checks—Other Cases in Police Court.

Judge Culliton on Friday morning issued a summons to be served on William Rogers, 49, of 649 Delaware avenue, to appear at his office at the city hall and explain about a check he had given a resident of the city. Sergeant Simpson sought for Rogers that day and finally located him in a speakeasy on Abel street, and arrested him on a charge of public intoxication.

This morning while Rogers sat in police headquarters awaiting to be arraigned in police court on the public intoxication charge, Mrs. Ruth L. Rich of the Colonial Diner on Broadway, called at the city hall to see Judge Culliton in regard to two bad checks that she had cashed for Rogers.

Judge Culliton issued warrants on both bad checks, and after Rogers had been arraigned on the public intoxication charge he was also arraigned on the bad check charge. He was sentenced to five days in jail on public intoxication charge and Judge Culliton informed him he would impose sentence on the bad check charge at the expiration of the serving of the jail sentence of five days. One of the warrants sworn out by Mrs. Rich was not served on Rogers today.

Rogers, who is in business selling an instrument to be used on automobiles, told Judge Culliton that he had been given four checks by a customer.

John C. Phas of 442 Broadway, arrested on a warrant sworn out by John D. Kajor, who charged Phas with giving him a bad check for $24.40, pleaded not guilty and the hearing was adjourned to next Wednesday.

WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR THE WEEK BEGINNING MONDAY

Gar Wood Captures 1st Heat From Kaye Don In Trophy Race

Harmsworth Course, Detroit, Sept. 3 (AP).—Gar Wood, after trailing at the start, pushed his Miss America X to a breathtaking speed to win the first heat of the Harmsworth trophy race on Lake St. Clair today.

Kaye Don, British challenger, hurled his Miss England III over the course at a marvelous speed, took the lead at the start of the race and held it for nearly 28 miles, but Wood was not to be denied, and he opened up his craft to higher power to overtake the Briton and win the heat.

Wood's astounding finish stunned the crowd of more than 100,000 persons who lined the shores and crowded lake boats to see the 35 nautical mile race despite a rain which ceased just before the race began again at the close of the fourth lap.

Don, after roaring away to the long lead, gained consistently for three laps. Wood picked up some of the distance on the fourth lap, and on the final round turned loose his 48-horsepower speed giant of 6,400 horsepower completely to overwhelm the English challenger.

Wood's speed for the 35 nautical miles of the heat was 76.024 statute miles per hour, while Don's was 71.265.

Choppy water, apparently slowed both boats, as neither pilot was able to get under full power on the three-mile straightaways, because of the bouncing about of their boats.

Kaye Don's entry arrived at its boat well at the end of the first heat with its stern riding low in the water. Don said that the boat had taken considerable water during the heat, but he did not know the cause.

At the end of the race, Wood said: "I ran the race exactly as I planned it; I am very happy and I hope to win again Monday."

Don went to his boat well and made no immediate statement.

The second heat will be run over the same course Monday morning and a third if necessary on Tuesday.

Soon after Don landed, Commodore Harry Greening, of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club, who represents England on the Harmsworth committee, arrived with Otto Barthel, of the American Power Boat Association, the American representative, to talk with the British pilot.

In response to a question as to whether he would be able to race Monday, Don replied: "I think we will be in there again Monday all right. But, of course, I can't tell until we find out what was wrong."

The English pilot added that he did not believe he had struck anything in the course, and that, although the lake was rough, it was no rougher than water in which the boat had been run before.

"It was a fine course," he continued. "I could see clearly and it was a pleasure to drive."

"I confess that I do not know," he said when asked if he knew what had happened. "At the end of the third lap I lost a lot of revolutions—you can say I lost a lot of speed. Why, I can't tell you. We probably won't know before the end of the day. Something just went wrong, that's all."

Commodore Greening said he believed Miss England's spark plugs had been fouled.

Soon after the Miss England was docked, chains were placed about the craft and it was hoisted from the water and an inspection of its hull begun.

CHARGES CLAIM WITH RESPONSIBILITY OF VOTES

Schenectady, N. Y., Sept. 3 (AP).—James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, charged the members of the Democratic Union and the Union of Young Democratic Clubs of New York State today with the responsibility of insuring New York state's 47 electoral votes for Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt.

"That is your responsibility," Farley said in an address before the joint convention of the groups. "I will give it to you with full confidence that you will rise to that responsibility so militantly that we can all feel proud on election night that New York has honored one who in turn has honored New York."

Farley made a strong appeal for funds, some of which he said would be used "to counteract the malicious and despicable propaganda of our opponents by truthful advertising in the open forum of newspaper columns."

He said plans are under way for the formation of more than 1,500 separate units of the Union of Democratic Clubs in New York state. Conventions will be held in each congressional district to officially mark the opening of the presidential campaign.

"This well-thought-out plan will insure our reaching every town and hamlet throughout the state," he said. "It will be the means by which our club will gain for us the support of the independent and thinking Republican voter no matter where that vote may be."

VanDerburg Killed When Struck By Auto

Near Pleasant Valley Inn on Saugerties Road, Friday—Several Others Injured When an Auto Is Also Hit.

Edward VanDerburg, 65, of Chenango, received injuries from which he died before he could be taken to the hospital, when he stepped in front of an approaching automobile near the Pleasant Valley Inn, on the Saugerties road, about 3 o'clock Friday afternoon.

VanDerburg, who lived alone not far from the scene of the accident, was walking along the side of the road, about half way up the hill near the inn, when a friend walking north on the opposite side of the road called to him. He started to cross the road, apparently not noticing an approaching Chevrolet driven by Chester Beers of Saugerties, who was accompanied by Carl Wendell.

The Chevrolet struck VanDerburg knocking him down and then continued toward the left and struck an Oldsmobile sedan driven by Lynn Collett of West Camp. Collett received severe bruises. Mrs. Collett was injured about the hand and their son, Donald, received a cut over the eye that took several stitches to close. Three others in the car were reported to be uninjured.

VanDerburg was taken in an ambulance to the Kingston Hospital, but died before reaching the hospital. By order of Coroner W. N. Turner, who was present at the scene of the accident, an autopsy was performed by Doctors Vantagebrook and Jacobson, assisted by Dr. Schillingham. It was found that VanDerburg had sustained a fractured skull, with numerous other fractures and lacerations, including a deep wound in his side.

Deputies Molyneux and Albright of the sheriff's office and Captain Richter of Saugerties went to the scene of the accident. Trooper Daley also made an investigation. According to the story told the officers, Beers turned to the left when he saw VanDerburg start to cross the road in front of him, but was unable to avoid striking the man, his right rear fender hitting him and knocking him down.

It is stated that VanDerburg is survived by one daughter, living in Brooklyn.

Mathews Treasurer Of Clothing Fund

D. N. Mathews is treasurer of the fund to be raised to purchase clothing for children of school age who do not have proper clothing to attend school when it opens on Tuesday. Mr. Mathews will be found at the State of New York National Bank, and anyone wishing to contribute to the fund may make checks out payable to Mr. Mathews and mail them to him.

There are about 800 children in the city at the present time who need clothing to attend school and it will cost about $1,500 to equip the children with clothing.

Donations of clothing for children of school age will also be gratefully received and arrangements have been made to use the vacant store on Main street, adjoining the Eagle Hotel and formerly occupied by a furniture company. There will be found someone in charge at the store until further notice and clothing may be left there.

Another meeting of the proposed Volunteer Aid Committee will be held Tuesday evening at the city hall for the purpose of electing officers and perfecting an organization.

The fund being raised for the children is part of the program of this committee.

Delinquent Taxes Due September 15

County Treasurer Arthur E. Rice announces that September 15 will be the last day on which delinquent taxes may be paid by the property owners in the towns of Ulster county without the addition of heavy extra charges due to expense of advertising the same.

Up to September 15, the taxes may be paid with the addition of interest at the rate of 10 per cent a year. The county treasurer has extended the time for payment of taxes as long as possible and many have been taking advantage of the extra time allowed. There will be no further extension, however, as it would not allow sufficient time for advertising unpaid taxes as required by law.

REGULATION OF GERMAN PAYMENTS BEING PLANNED

Berlin, Sept. 3 (AP).—Negotiations for special regulation of the German payments for mixed claims and the cost of the army of occupation were reported today as planned.

Whether or not Germany would ask Washington to postpone these payments, part of which are due September 30, was not disclosed in official circles. It was merely stated the German-American agreement covering the payments in question provided the possibility of postponement for two and a half years.

Regulation of these payments is necessary because the United States did not participate in the recent conversations of the European nations at Lausanne, when reparations were scaled down.

Mexican President Resigned After 3 Uncertain Weeks

President Rubio Sent Resignation to Congress Today Making Turbulent Political Situation—Several Suggested as Successors.

Mexico City, Sept. 3 (AP).—President Pascual Ortiz Rubio sent his resignation to congress today, bringing to a turbulent political crisis to a head after nearly three weeks of uncertainty.

He disclosed his decision to his cabinet shortly at Chapultepec Castle late yesterday, and the ministers also stepped aside to give congress and the president to be selected a free hand.

Ortiz Rubio stepped down a little more than two and one-half years after he had been inaugurated to serve the remaining four years of the late Alvaro Obregon's six year term.

Congress undoubtedly will consider the resignation immediately, and there is a possibility a successor may be chosen before tonight, although several legal technicalities must be straitened out before the post is filled.

Most prominently mentioned for the presidency is Gen. Abelardo L. Rodriguez, minister of war in Ortiz Rubio's cabinet, who came into prominence during the Escobar revolution two years ago. Others high in the running are Alberto J. Pani, Ortiz Rubio's minister of finance and veteran diplomat, and Gen. Joaquin Amaro, former secretary of war.

No Reason Given.

General Jose Rios' announcement of the president's resignation just after midnight avoided all mention of his reason for resigning, but it was generally understood it was failing health. It was reported Ortiz Rubio wished to leave at once for Rochester, Minn., for medical treatment.

Neither did Rios, who is minister of the interior, mention the political misunderstandings of recent weeks and the rumors that have rocked the capital. It was merely disclosed that the president had communicated "the text of his resignation" to the cabinet for transmission to congress.

Ortiz Rubio ran into trouble before he had been president two hours, when he was fired on by a youthful zealot, and seriously wounded. He had been a compromise candidate of the dominant revolutionary party to succeed Obregon, who was elected in 1928 and assassinated before he could take office.

Appointment Troubles.

Then came the abortive Escobar revolt with Generals Calles and Rodriguez taking the field to suppress the movement. They were successful, but the president had by then run into difficulties with his appointments. General Calles twice was called on to serve as secretary of war during Ortiz Rubio's term, and twice prevented a major crisis.

Then came what appeared to be a trivial dispute between Francisco Ortiz Rubio, the president's brother, and Vincent Estrada Caljalil, chief of the Federal District government over the general (Mexico City) Hospital administration. That was in mid-August, and before Francisco Ortiz Rubio had resigned as administrator of charities many other resignations had been sent to the presidential palace.

Caljalil asserted he had incurred the President's disfavor as arbitrator in a dispute in the hospital when he crossed Francisco. General Calles, chief of the revolutionary group, sought to remain aloof, but the tide of political pressure finally was reported to have forced him to agree to Ortiz Rubio's departure, although he was very unwilling to consider a change at first.

"Joker" Found

A "joker" in the constitution concerning presidential resignations was discovered today, a factor which may bring the supreme court into the picture before a new president definitely can be chosen.

The constitution specifies that, in the event a president steps out during the first two years of his term, a provisional president shall be elected by congress, and a presidential election called at the same time. If such a resignation should come during the last two years, a substitute president to fill out the term would be chosen.

But the constitution also placed a presidential term at six years, less than a two-year blank space. Ortiz Rubio is in his third year, so it is not possible for anyone to figure out whether an election is in the offing.

In any event, when the president's successor takes office, three presidents will have served Mexico within less than half the normal six-year presidential term. Emilio Portes Gil served 18 months provisionally, until Ortiz Rubio was inaugurated.

Ortiz Rubio is an engineer by profession, but had served in the Mexican diplomatic corps for some time before becoming chief executive.

Early Friday night traffic on Broadway was delayed about an hour when the gasoline car used on the Watkill Valley railroad jumped the track on the crossing as it was being loaded across by a switch engine. In a few minutes traffic was tied up and police headquarters sent several men to handle the traffic which was forced to cross the railroad tracks in a single lane

Armenian Dinners
One-dish dinners are popular with Armenians, who almost invariably combine meat, vegetables and cereals, cooking them all together. Lamb broth is the base of Armenian soup, and even that is served with meat and vegetables. When tomatoes, peppers, cucumbers, cabbage, are not cooked in the same dish with meat they are usually stuffed with meat.

Back of the dining room in the kitchen with an immense stone fireplace having old-time ovens on either side containing cooking utensils. Here is where the delicious refreshments will be prepared to serve all those who attend the party.

On the second floor are several rooms, including a bath. One is particularly attractive, priceless, and each, each telling its own story, an exhibition is a spacious room at the head of the stairs.

Back of the chapter house is a lovely lawn with many beautiful trees casting their leafy shadows over the veranda and here the garden party will be held. Zucra's stringed orchestra will be placed on the veranda for the entertainment.

Visiting chapter members are cordially invited to attend this very lovely colonial garden party and they are assured a warm welcome.

The committees have everything in readiness for a delightful afternoon.

If stormy, the tea will be held in the chapter house. The public is invited. A nominal sum is asked.

Although rain prevented a large attendance last Saturday evening, the third of a series of dances at the Twaalskill Club proved to be one of the most enjoyable of the season for those who attended. A number of guests were present with the club members. Music for the occasion was furnished by Paul Zucra and his orchestra.

IMMANUEL LUTHERAN LADIES PLAN PICNIC
Plans have been completed to make the annual picnic of the Ladies' Aid Society of Immanuel Lutheran Church a pleasant event to close the vacation season. The society is looking forward to a large gathering in Hasbrouck Park on Labor Day, especially since the annual church and Sunday school picnic in July came to grief because of rain. Delegations from the Albany area have signified their intention to come to this picnic. A luncheon will be served at noon and in the evening. The usual picnic refreshments have been provided for. The games and contests ought to interest young and old. Should it rain again on Labor Day, the parish hall would, of course, again be pressed into service.

On the right hand side of the main hallway is the lovely dining room, with its huge fireplace, with kettle hanging therein, ready for tea. This room has so many articles of interest that one must see them to appreciate them. It abounds with charm and hospitality as tea is served by some gracious Regent, at the close of the meetings, and a general feeling of fellowship, pride and ownership is in the heart of each and every daughter. "Martha Washington" will pour the tea. The dining room is particularly attractive, priceless, and each, each telling its own story, an exhibition is a spacious room at the head of the stairs.

Today
Kingston: "Mystery Ranch"
George O'Brien appearing as master-line as usual along with beautiful Cecilia Parker in a western melodrama filmed against a gorgeous background of natural beauty. The story is average, with an attempt to be mysterious. It is the talkie version of the book entitled "The Killer"
by Stewart Edward White.
Orpheum: "Amateur Daddy" and "Aloha". Warner Baxter and Marian Nixon form a delightful talkie team in this story of a man who plays the part of a father to a group of orphan children. "Aloha" is a South Sea Island romance with a tragic ending. Ben Lyon and Raquel Torres are the principals.
Broadway: "When a Feller Needs a Friend". The excellent acting of Jackie Cooper as a crippled boy whose mother and father make the situation worse by being overcautious in everything he wants to do, and this same in the role of a friend who offsets their influence, and makes the boy happy, are the main reasons that this show is above the average in entertainment value.

Tomorrow
Kingston: Same.
Orpheum: "White Paris Sleeps"
and "The Long, Long Trail". While the first picture is a drama that takes an audience behind the scenes of Parisian night life, the second brings a tale of the great outdoors with the one and only Hood Gibson in the saddle. Another episode of "Danger Island" with Kenneth Harlan and Walter Miller will also be shown.
Broadway: "Red Headed Woman".
A motion picture that glows and stands out as much as its title. This risque, screamingly funny, talkie from the novel of Katherine Brush comes to the screen as an outstanding picture, recommended to grown-ups. It's the history of a red headed girl on the wrong side of the social whirl, who decides to become a lady of leisure by marrying some rich man and joining the four hundred.
Jean Harlow plays the title role to perfection, giving her finest screen performance. Others in a notable cast include Chester Morris, Leila Hyams, Una Merkel and Lewis Stone.
A feature of the Sunday program will offer Roger Baer Schwartz at the organ in a program of popular melodies.

ITALIAN ROADBED YIELDS FUNDS TO BUILD HIGHWAY
Castellamare Di Stabia, Italy, (A).—An unfinished road between Pompelli and this port is paying its way, although it is not completed.
This is because digging for the roadbed has revealed dozens of valuable archaeological specimens.
Three pre-Roman tombs of the second and fourth centuries before Christ have been discovered, containing, in addition to skeletons, many beautiful vases and busts.
The new highway is an extension of the boulevard between Naples and Pompeii.

Main Bout. "No Contest," Other Clashes Interesting

America Retains Walker Classic

By ALAN COULD

Associated Press Sports Writer

The main bout of the American Walker classic, a 12-round affair, was a hard-fought battle between the two contenders, Joe Pincus and Tony Amento. The bout was a close one, with both men exchanging blows and showing great endurance. The referee, who was a well-known boxing official, called the fight a "no contest" after the eighth round, as neither man was able to continue.

The other bouts of the evening were also interesting. In the first round, a local fighter named "Mungo" defeated his opponent by a knockout in the fourth round. The crowd was enthusiastic, and the fight was well-received.

The American Walker classic is a well-known event, and it is always a treat to see the best fighters in the world compete. The American team retained their title, and the event was a success.

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN J. COULD

(Associated Press Sports Editor)

It was hot down on Broadway with the summer sun reflected from steam-heated pavements but a cool wind was blowing through the hotel windows, and the crowd was in a good mood.

It naturally would be with Captain Lawrence McGowan, Jr., called "Big" in one corner and Captain Walter Wells, called many names but usually "Cappy," in the other.

Captain Jones, completing his first six months as head coach at Louisiana State University, was making a visit to New York to see about a game somewhere in the east in 1933 for his Tigers. "Cappy" Wells had come down from the Point to help him out and get in a few ticks for his rackets.

"I'm not what you'd call sentimental," said "Big," stretching his 200 odd pounds out in an easy chair, "but I'm not looking for a game with Army. After 11 years at the Point to take a team back there to play the boys, well, I'm not going to do it, that's all. Someone else can bring them up."

What about his team, what were the prospects, how many football players did he have? Not much information had come north since he took charge last February.

"About fifteen," he said in answer to the last question. "Oh, you mean how many men are in uniform? Well, we have about 40. Over a hundred turned out for spring practice and about 50 carried through but we've weeded them down to 40 now."

"We'll start practice September 5, starting early and I mean early, 6:30 in the morning. It's cooler then, I'm using the double and single wing we used at the Point last year."

Torrance Shifted
"I'm moving Jack Torrance over to tackle, where the boy belongs, and putting Malone, a guard last year, in at center. I've got a couple of good backs, Nixon and a chap named 'Bird' Yates. He's six feet and 195 pounds. He'll play the same backfield position as Stecker. I'm weak at guard and not so good at end but we'll get by."

"If Torrance would only get interested in football there's a player—six feet four and 265 pounds. I had him playing in the fourth team against the first last year, got him good and mad and he nearly tore my first string line to pieces. He's more interested in basketball and track than he is in football right now and that's bad."

When did he expect to beat Tulane? That's the Tigers' climax game.
"Maybe in 1933 or 1934," "Big" said and smiled. "We'll get going in a couple of years. Tulane has a good team coming up again this year I'm told."

What were the good teams in the south this year?
"Tennessee, Vanderbilt, Georgia," said "Big," counting them off on his fingers. "Tulane, Alabama." "Say, I dropped off to see Alabama in practice last spring. Off at one side of the field were 12 enormous linesmen going through their paces. 'First string line,' I asked. 'No, that's just our tackles,' my guide said. Tennessee won't beat them 25-0 this year."

Morgan's Repealers Trim New Pakz, 6-2

Jimmy Morgan's Repealers of the City League played the New Pakz Stars at New Paltz Friday evening and behind the superb showing of "Breezy" Knight banded the Stars 6-2.

Knights also put on a good exhibition of hitting, clouting two of the longest triples made in New Paltz in a long time. Ralph Williams clouted a long home run for the Repealers while the rest of the players picked the Stars' pitcher for 11 hits all told. It was the first defeat in 14 for the Stars.

At Schoonover's diamond Sunday the Repealers will stack up against David's All Stars of Glasco.
